Another novice who came to grief was George H. Loose, piloting a biplane. Loose negotiated the length of the field in darts and skips. On reaching a knoll near the limits of the enclosure, a plane grazed the shoulder of a spectator, the machine swerved and turned over on its side, wrecking itself. The aviator was not injured.

"BLESSING IN DISGUISE"

Whitsitt-Enton Controversy Was Needed to Clear Up Church Atmosphere.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Louisville, Ky., January 22.—Assertion was made to-day at the memorial services for the late Rev. William H. Whitsitt, former president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, who died in Richmond Friday night, that the famous Whitsitt-Eaton relligious controversy, which came near disrupting the Baptist Church afteen years ago, was a blessing in dirguise, Dr. A. T. Robertson, a professor in the seminary, and a close friend and associate of Dr. Whitsitt, declared that just such an explosion was needed to clarify the atmosphere, and that it has tended to unify the church in sentiment, thought and co-operation.

"Dr. Whitsitt," he said, "was born in the midst of a technical controversy which had been raging for two generations. Technical exceptions were taken by some doctrinaire to nearly every statement made concerning the theology and doctrines of the various churches. Nothing less than such a terrific explosion as the Whitsitt-Eaton controversy could possibly have ended the bitter doctrinal discussions."

Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, professor of church history at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said at the memorial services that Dr. Whitsitt's contention in the controversy, that immersion was restored by the Baptist faith. Dr. Whitsitt had discovered the exact date while a student in German and English universities.
